Subject: Brendan S. Rose – File 2025-64274-I – Submission of Further Reflection on Perceived Suppression Patterns and Ongoing Creed Practice (December 23, 2025)

Dear Registrar,

I am writing to submit additional material in support of the sincerity of my creed in the above-referenced matter.

As part of my ongoing practice—which includes radical honesty, continual self-examination, and the refusal to cling to unproven narratives even when they might appear to strengthen my position—I wish to clarify and refine my current understanding of the suppression patterns I have experienced.

My position is that there is currently not enough evidence to justify any claims of a centralized conspiracy. Rather, it points to independent actors, following their own self-interest and regulatory pressures converging, which gives the impression of a centralized conspiracy. But as of right now, the evidence does not indicate that, at least not decisively or directly. Certainly not enough to justify any direct accusations or claims in this tribunal.

This refinement arose after re-listening to my own recorded discourse on the subject:

The broader context of this practice is preserved in the public archive:

Attached please find screenshots of two recent public posts on X (formerly Twitter) from my account @TheDevil666_BSR, which further illustrate this evolving reflection.

This submission is offered in good faith as evidence of continued creed practice: the willingness to correct or nuance my position when new understanding emerges, even at the potential cost of narrative coherence or perceived dramatic weight. Such intellectual integrity, performed publicly and without retraction of prior practice, remains a core sacrament of my sincerely held beliefs.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

Brendan S. Rose
